Dear Mr. Thomas,

I would like to thank you for the wonderful and persuasive program you did at our school. We had excellent feed back from the teachers and students.

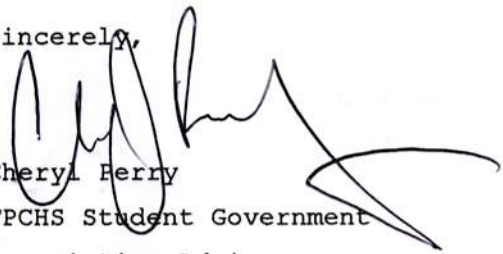

The students could relate to your stories about being an avid athletic. They really got into your program and I personally think were moved by the story you had to tell.

The teachers thought the program was proof of an ugly reality; suicide is a problem and must be talked about, not ignored. One teacher said, "There was eye rolling among my students at the beginning of the program (that we've heard this before attitude) but as his situation became clear they fell silent and focused."

As you know from the students that talked directly to you during the Meet and Greet portion of the program, the message cut real close for several kids. I just wanted to let you know, since that time, 2 kids (that I am aware of) have reached out for professional help. YOU MADE A DIFFERENCE!

Again, on behalf of FPCHS, I would like to thank you for the time you took here and I hope that you continue your work with suicide prevention.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Berry
